```
function addIdToArray( ownerName, id ) {            async function addIdToArray( ownerName, id ) { return User.findOne( {name: ownerName} )            atomic {
        .then( user => {                                    user = await User.findOne( user._ids.push( id );                               {name: ownerName} );
            return user.save();                             user._ids.push( id );
    } );                                                    return await user.save();
}                                                       }
                                                    }
function addIdToArray( ownerName, id ) {
    db.user.update({name:ownerName}, {$push:{_ids: id}})

}
```